LOCAL OPTION LEAGUE PROPOSES A TRADE

Would Give Up Opposition to Sheppard Amendment if A. S. L. Would Withdraw.

The following communication has been received for publication.

White River Junction, Sep. 4.—Raymond Trainor, secretary of the Vermont Local Option League, dropped an air bomb into the prohibition camp today by offering to give up all opposition to the so-called Sheppard amendment if the Anti-Saloon league would agree to release candidates for the legislature from the pledges and let the state try out national prohibition for the period of the war.

"In my opinion Congress will enact a bone-dry prohibition law before our legislature meets," said Mr. Trainor today "or the President may stop the manufacture and sale of liquor by proclamation. In that case, there will be no possible excuse for tying up Vermont on the Sheppard amendment, because we should then have war prohibition without it.

"Such an act on the part of Congress or such a proclamation by the President would demonstrate beyond question that the country could have nationwide war prohibition without tampering with the constitution, and that there is no further need of a campaign in Vermont to influence the members of the legislature to ratify the Sheppard amendment. "Under these conditions, I will undertake to say for the Local Option league that we will cease any further activity to defeat the amendment if the Anti-Saloon league, on its part, will release all candidates for senator and representative from their pledges to ratify and that our opponents will agree further that no attempt will be made to ratify during the 1919 session of the legislature. "We can then see what the effects of national war prohibition will be, and, at the close of the war, judge whether it is best to make it a permanent policy of the nation or return to the present status. "Let us turn our attention to putting Vermont on a business basis, conserving the state's money, providing state pay for all Vermonters in military service and directing every effort toward the one end which this nation now seeks—winning the war."

Valuable Brick Material.

The slime which accumulates at the various mines in the Kolar gold fields, in India, is now being mixed with clay and made into bricks. Instead of being treated as a waste product, as heretofore. The bricks made in this way are said to be superior to those acquired from outside sources and are used extensively in lining circular shafts and other construction work carried on by the mining companies. Later on it is proposed to make fire brick, clay enclaves, and artificial stone.

I have been in business all my life and have been a large employer of labor. My duties have brought me into contact with real men and I claim this as one of my best qualifications for this office, should the people see fit to honor me with it.

I again ask you, Mr. Root, if you are elected, will you vote for or against the amendment, or do you still maintain it is not the voters' right to know where you stand?

Kindly answer this letter publicly that the voters may know your position.

Yours very truly,
A. S. Payne.
